Medium: Video

Location: Mobile unit visiting various city facilities

As Artist in Residence 2014, Dwight Storring visited the city's 14 community centres and engaged with staff and citizens in story gathering about their neighbourhoods. The legacy of his residency is Neighbourhood Voices, a collection of personal video stories that reflects how the everyday lives of people ripple out across the community to create the narrative we live each day.

Neighbourhood Voices is a mobile exhibition of the portraits and video stories. The unit tours community centres and other city facilities such as libraries and workplaces. The exhibit returns the stories to the community centres where they were gathered, which emphasizes the integral role played by everyday people in making the ongoing story of the city.
